MATLE ARRIVE

TWO PICTURES.

An old farm house with meadows wide, And sweet with clover on each side; A bright-eyed boy who looks from out The door with woodbine wreathed about, And wishes his one thought all day:

"Oht if I could but fly away From this dull spot the world to see How happy, happy, happy, How happy I would be!" mid the city's constant din, man who round the world has been thinking, thinking, all day long:

"Oh! if I could only trace once more The field path to the farm house door The old green meadows could I see How happy, happy, happy, How happy I would be!" THERE are some people who are not very much alive to this world. They live, but are dead to all that part of the universe outside of their door yards. This is the case with the recluses, of whom we frequently read who have not left their obscure settle ments for years, who have never seen steamboat or railroad train, although within hearing of both, perhaps, for half a century. But a queerer case than any of these has come to light in Iowa, near Iowa Falls, where a Mra-Sarah Cullum, eighty-one years of age, and the widow of a soldier of the war of 1812, has just discovered that she is entitled to a pension. She was mar-ried in 1810, became a mother in 1811, lost her husband in 1812, read newspapers sixty four years, and yet had never heard of bounties, pensions or back pay!" Truth is indeed oftentimes more marvelous in her revelations than fiction.

WHO ARE YOUR FAVORITES?

In order to ascertain the sentiments of the Republicans of Macon county with reference to their pacference for President of the United States and Governor of Illinois, we suggest to our aubscribers that each one drop us a postal card, containing the names of the men whom he prefers for these two important offices. It would be interesting to everybody to know just what the sentiment of our people really is, with respect to the presidency and | the governorship, and we know of no other way in which the matter can be so easily and so cheaply ascertained.

Send in pour postal cards, and if any considerable number of responses are received we will publish the result next week.

ONE by one the prominent Domocratic journals come into line approving President Grant's recent official acts. The Louisville Courier Journal snys of the message in reply to the Blackburn fresolution : "The message seems not only to have the law on the House, but it has decidedly the advantage in facts and precedents, and has the attitude of not being conversant with some of the most familiar facts and practices in our history. that was taken by the Senator from Inat the interesting period to which he has referred. I vividly recall the thrill of exultation which passed through and to the pretensions of State rights upon which those who revolted against the Union alone defended, themselves, gave aid and comfort to the enemy in arms alike against the United States and against the State of Indiana.

It is not strange that that act, as every other act of every public man, right or wrong, good or bad, true or imputed, is made the occasion of vilifieation; for we live in a time of public scandal, and no man who holds any public position, scarcely any man who interests himself in public affairs, escapes the general vituperation. Men whose lives have been passed in the re-putable and even in the illustrious service of the country are held up to the exceration of the people whose good will they enjoy and whose gratitude some of them have carned. The testimony has been worthy of the accusation. Discharged employes, brokendown contractors, illicit distillers, disappointed office seckers, men compared to whom Titus Oates was a credible witness, have been permitted to drag the reputations of honorable men before tribunals which in their methods of jurisprudence remind us of the star of the accused were borrowed from the Spanish inquisition.

Nay, Mr. President, the ponitentiary and the mad house have given up their dead in this general resurrection of falsehood and perjury. It is but a few days since the whole country was start-led with the foreshadewing of some terrible revelation against the elected chief of the Republic. We were told that he committed a crime so atrocious that it could not be named; but when it was exhibited to the American peoloft the House of Representatives in ple in its unparalleled enermity nothing but the shortest methods of the quickest impeachment would stand between you, Mr. President, and the White House, which I hope, at some day, you differences, will withhold their approval will reach by a less circuitous route. And upon the promise of that testimony, and nothing else whatever, a thousand newspapers opened their batteries upon the character of the man who had borne the flag of his country in triumph from the ramparts of Fort Donelson to the captured citadel of the Directors' Meeting .- Yesterday afternoon the directors of the Centennial Fair held a meeting at the office of the county treasurer, the object of which was to make out a premium list and appoint committees for the respective departments. There was quite a full attendance of the directors, and a disposition was manifest to make the fair a grand success. Liberal premiumns were arranged for each and every department, and efficient committees appointed. The premium list will be made public in due time, and all the details will be advertised. We will take the liberty urge all our people to interest themselves in this enterprise, and make such a success of it as will secure the permanent establishment of a district fair at this points The managing board is an efficient one, and it only remains for them to be backed by the people to have a fair worthy

LETTER FROM MT. ZION.

Mr. Zion, Ill., May 8, 1876. EDITORS REPUBLICAN:- With your permission I will present you a brief report of our church progress for publication. The great Head of the church approved and signally blest our efforts as a congregation, last January, in the salvation of souls and the accession of twenty persons to the church. On yesterday eleven more, all heads of families [ex] cept two young men, were added to our congregation. This makes thirty-one additions in less than four months. As our congregation continues to grow in strength we feel with the great apostle at Appli-Forum, to "thank God and take courage." As David loved to meditate upon the "statutes of the Lord," so we may joyfully exclaim with the in Bickwith Edwin spired writer, "The Lord is good, a stronghold in the day of trouble; and He knoweth them that trust in Him."-And though like David we may be "beset behind and before," by "dark waters and thick clouds of the skies," yet faith penetrates the veil when supported by the following "promise of celestial worth, viz: "All things work together for good to them that love God."
